Sealer Flashes Message

LONDON, May 29.—Hope for the safety of General Umberto Nobile and the seventeen members of the crew of the lost dirigible Italia was revived at King's Bay today when the captain of the supply ship Citta di Milano wireless that he had received information leading him to believe that the dirigible had made a forced landing at Amsterdam Island a Central News dispatch from the dirigi-ble's base stated.

Message Very Faint.
Amsterdam Island is a few miles north of Magdalena bay where the Citta di Milano is hemmed by the ice floes.

The captain of the supply ship wirelessed that he had been in communication with a sealer which reportedly had received a message which apparently came from the lost dirigible.
The message received by the sealer was very faint and great difficulty was encountered in deciphering it, but the message of the Citta di Milano's captain strongly indicates that he believes the Italia made a safe landing at Amsterdam Island.
He advised that a strong wind and a murky fog prevented the immedi-

GARLED messages, in French and Italian, picked up by radio stations in San Francisco and elsewhere on the Pacific coast, come undoubtedly from Nobile's dirigible, Italia.
But the location of the airship was not given, and hope rests on search at random inside the Arctic circle.

FORTUNATELY, Gen. Nobile has provisions for a month, with sleds and as full equipment as could be carried. He and his companions are men of courage, and hope need not be abandoned for several weeks.

70TH CONGRESS ENDS SESSION AT 5:30 P. M.

House Approves Senate
Resolution to Adjourn.

CHANGE IN VOTE

Senator Johnson Delivers Magnificent Gesture of Defeat.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The first session of the 70th Congress ends at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Within an hour after the senate had adopted, 46 to 35, a resolution to adjourn at that hour, the house approved the adjournment by a vote of 175 to 9.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Reversing its action of yesterday, the senate, after an all-night session, voted today to adjourn the 70th congress at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. Immediate adoption by the house of the adjournment resolution is anticipated as the house had already voted to quit at 5 o'clock today.

The vote to adjourn was 46 to 35.
The revised adjournment resolution was brought in by administration leaders after it appeared evident that Boulder dam supporters would not be able to break the filibuster conducted against the bill by the two Arizona senators, Ashurst and Hayden.

It was planned to make the Boulder dam bill the senate's unfinished business for the December session, thus assuring its adoption next winter.

Pour Oil On Waters.
Following adoption of the adjournment resolution Senator Bruce (D) of Maryland blocked all attempts to reach an agreement to make the bill the "unfinished business" of the senate at its session in December.

Bruce's objections brought down on him censure from Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the minority floor leader, and Senator Hiram W. Johnson (R)
of California, leader of the Boulder dam fight.

After twenty minutes of fiery arguments, the senate went into executive session to consider presidential appointments. The motion was made by Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, obviously in an effort to pour oil on the troubled senatorial waters.

At the conclusion of the fight Johnson arose and delivered a magnificent gesture of defeat. He was given a tremendous ovation by the galleries and his colleagues.

"I am whipped," he said, "his voice choking, "yes, but by heaven, Sir, there is another day coming and some one else may be whipped."
The galleries burst into prolonged applause, while even senators and members of the house seated on the

GIRL WAS SEEN ONE WEEK AGO

Fail to Identify Salem Suspect as Driver of Car Used by Kidnaper of Tot.

YOUNGSTOWN, May 29.—Police Chief J. J. McNicholas today admitted that detectives had run into a stone wall in connection with the Beatrice Rosenbaum disappearance and death.
The 10-year-old girl, daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Max Rosenbaum, was found dead Sunday after she had been missing from home since May 11, last.

J. R. Lipplatt, father of the two boys who discovered the girl's body, has declared that a child answering Beatrice's description was seen by him picking flowers one week ago. This, it was said, strengthened belief of some officers that the girl had wandered away from home by herself.

Of 13 men arrested in connection with the case, all have been released but one and he has practically proved an alibi, police say.

Scouts Saw Suspicious Man

Boy Scouts of Salem, near which city the girl's body was located, have told police they hiked in the region where the body was found Saturday, the day preceding the discovery, and saw a man in a blue suit jump and run over a hill. Sunday, the boys reported, they returned to the same location and saw the same man in company with another, dressed in gray trousers and a ragged blue coat.

Latest clues in the case, according to police, were a handkerchief which was picked up Monday two miles from the spot where the body was found, and a fragment of an envelope on which was written a grocery list.
Several confectionery wrappers and a short piece of rope also were found in an abandoned shed not more than 50 yards from where the body was located, officers reported.

Exonerate Salem Man

Police found that a Salem man in the Columbiana county jail at Lisbon had no connection with the case.
Mrs. W. C. Van Gorder and Mrs.
George E. Kelley neighbors of the Rosenbaums after viewing the Lisbon prisoner last night said he was not the men they saw drive away from the Rosenbaum home with Beatrice May 14.

"He is out so far as the Rosenbaum girls is concerned," Chief Mc-Nicholas said. "However, the man who was arrested Saturday on a statutory charge is still held in connection with that case."

BODY OF GIRL STOLEN FROM BED THROWN ON PORCH OF KIN

Dorothy Sielagowski,
7, is Brutally
Assaulted.

CHOKED TO DEATH
Father Finds Lifeless
Form as He Answers
Distress Call.

TOLEDO, O., May 29.—Finding of the death car and the arrest of Stanley Sielagowski, 17, brother of 7-year-old Dorothy Sielagowski, who was brutally murdered this morning, were the latest developments in the man-hunt here this afternoon.

TOLEDO, O., May 29.—One of the greatest man hunts organized in years began here today when the lifeless body of 7-year-old Dorothy Sielagow-ski, was found by her father, Alex, on the front porch of the home of the child's grandparents. The girl had been stolen from her bed, brutally assaulted by the driver of a small dark auto, choked to death, and her body cast upon the porch of her grandparents who lived a few steps from the girl's home.

Kidnaped as She Sleeps

The little victim was kidnaped as she slept in a room with three sisters,
Stella, 15; Leona, 5 and Caroline, 2.
In the adjoining room slept the girl's father with two brothers Ray, 11, and a younger brother, aged 6. The mother is a patient in a state institution.

The fiend, according to police, let himself into the Sielagowski home by means of a pass key at the kitchen door.

As the little girl was seized she attempted to scuffle, the noise awaking her sister, Leona.

As the intruder carried his victim from the room, Leona ran to her father's bed, screaming: "Oh, they're taking Dorothy!"

The father hurried to the lower floor where he saw a small auto speeding away.

Teeth Marks on Shoulder

After notifying the police the father called neighbors and relatives. In a few minutes his rounds took him to the home of the child's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Dobrenski, who reside across the street from the girl's home.

As he went into the yard, the father told police, a huge covered auto truck drove away. In the dim light of the breaking day the father found a huddled form in a corner of the porch. It was the lifeless body of his daughter.
A pair of her bloomers had been twisted about her neck, one eye was discolored and her little shoulders bore
the imprint of the fiend's teeth.

Coroner F. G. Krest who examined the body declared that the little victim had been brutally assaulted, and that death was due to strangulation.

As police began the hunt for the murderer, detectives headquarters communicated with Youngstown, where a two week's search for 10-year old Beatrice Rosenbaum ended Sunday with the finding of her body in a wooden ravine.

The Youngstown girl had been enticed from her home, according to police, and taken away in an auto which was also described as a "small dark sedan."

The Day of Peace

Marking the first time since the World War, ex-service men of East Liverpool will join in union services tomorrow in memory of the veterans of three great conflicts.

Recalling the grief and sadness inseparable from all wars, survivors of the Civil, Spanish-American and 1914-18 conflicts, will march as a unit in the Memorial Day parade which will precede the exercises at Riverview cemetery.

Every recurrence of Memorial Day since the World War, in which thousands of Americans made the supreme sacrifice, brings a new wave of peace talk. This especially true this year when America is taking the leadership in the undertaking to "outlaw war."

As Rev. Frederic A. Dean, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, told members of the Grand Army of the Republic, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Sons of Veterans and their auxiliaries in Memorial Sunday services, "The supreme sentiment at the heart of America is peace. Peace is a passion with the American people. America has never been a nation of war."

All thinking men realize that warfare is essentially foolish, unnecessary and wicked; that wars of aggression are intolerable, and that there should be peaceful substitutes for "wars of righteousness." If it is wicked for private citizens to kill each other, it is wicked for people grouped in nations to kill each other. If civilized man can outlaw and minimize murder among private citizens, he should be able to do the same thing among nations.

And Memorial Day is the best day in the year to think peace and talk peace.

Tribute to McKinley

Unveiling of a bronze tablet in honor of the memory of the heroes of the Civil War, under an elm tree on the state house grounds at Columbus by William McKinley Circle 24, Ladies of the G. A. R., directs additional honor to a man who made a wonderful governor of Ohio and who gave his life in the service of his country, which had honored him by sending him to the White House.

The tablet is located near an elm tree which was planted in 1922 in memory of the Civil War veterans, of which Major William McKinley was one. The inscription on the tablet reads:

McKinley Elm, William McKinley Circle No. 24, Ladies of the G. A. R., planted this Tree April 17, 1922, in Loving Memory of the Heroes of the Civil War—1861-1865. It is only fitting that such a table in the state house grounds should bear an inscription in memory of the Civil War veterans, but it is doubly fitting that it should bear the name of William McKinley, and be located near the elm tree which rears its proud branches in perpetual and loving honor to one of the outstanding figures in Ohio's history.

Rural Police

Establishment of a state rural police system in Ohio as a means of halting the "rising tide of banditry," is recommended by Robert McEvilly, vice-president of the First National Bank of Cincinnati, and president of the bankers' association. In support of his declaration that a state police system is needed, McEvilly says thirty-three Ohio banks have been assaulted by robbers in the last two years.

It is pointed out by McEvilly that a rural police system would not only be of inestimable value to the banks of the state, but would come in handy in curbing raids on farmers, on country merchants, and on motorists along rural highways.

"The loss to the farmers of the state through the theft of their produce and other things, has reached the point where it has become burdensome to that basic industry, to say nothing of the danger to life which attend such criminal offenses against society," says McEvilly.

"The theft and destruction of automobiles and accessories has reached amazing proportions, and only vigilant surveillance and strict enforcement of existing law will deter this class of criminals who live by their wits and the expense of the public.

"Within the last two years thirty-three banks have been attacked by robbers. The vicious character of these assaults and the apparent disregard for human life which appears to be the outstanding characteristic of the modern plunderer, would call for further protection than that now enjoyed, and we believe a state rural police system composed of efficient, fearless men, would materially lessen this and other classes of lawlessness."

The farmer, the automobile owner, the wool grower, the poultry raiser, the women's clubs, the families and the general citizenship all are urging that greater effort be made to suppress crime, and the apprehension of criminals in this day of rapid transportation would be much quicker, one is led to believe, if the state of Ohio would provide proper police to patrol the much-traveled inter-urban highways.

Principal objection of trades union members and other organizations, to establishment of a state police system is that such a force would be used in event of labor troubles, to intimidate the trades unionists, or others who might be at loggerheads with their employers.

The day of the labor strike in which pitched battles result, is gone. Today, where there are labor disputes employer and employee meet on common ground and attempt to thresh out their differences of opinion logically and sensibly.

It would be much cheaper for the taxpayers of Ohio to maintain a state police system than it is to mobilize a national guard unit and ship it off to some distant point to do precisely the work which the militia is required to do. State policemen would be constantly at work. Militiamen are called from their private business to perform the tasks which properly may be classed as state police work.

And yet militiamen are not available for the apprehension of criminals who prowls up and down the state. State police in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and many other sections have performed a wonderful work in the suppression of crime and the arrest of evil-doers. Perhaps the time is at hand when Ohio might profit by establishing some such system.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 29.—Although he is most often pictured in the role of diplomat, warrior, or economist, and seems primarily interested in affairs of state, the building of new cruisers, and the adjustment of international trade, one of Uncle Sam's chief concerns is the welfare of children in the United States.

To secure their health and happiness, he takes steps to abolish child labor and, to see that their educational needs are met adequately, he encourages well-governed schools in every state, negotiating in his big way the big problems of little citizens. It is not so generally known that he is concerned with the intimate details connected with raising babies but, through the Home Economics Bureau and the Children's Bureau, he is continually carrying on research to solve the problems of infant care, advancing inch by inch the frontiers of knowledge, to the end that future children may be more staid than those of today.

One problem that nearly all parents have to face, and one which the Bureau of Home Economics has studied, is the problem of making finicky children eat foods which they do not like but are necessary for the correct growth and development of their bodies.

It is significant that the dishes upon which dictatorial Junior usually rules thumbs down are wholesome foods that he really needs. One by one these are dropped from his menu and he soon begins to give evidence of a malnourished condition. His eyes lose their sparkle, he becomes fussy with his playmates, and his school work lags. Investigate his diet and you will find that he is eating too many sweets and too few vegetables, fruits, and eggs, and drinking but little milk.

In fact, says Uncle Sam, relentlessly pursuing his point, if missing one meal does not show the child that his parents are in earnest, he may as well be required to miss several more.

Of course it is stipulated that parents, before adopting this drastic procedure, be very sure they have been offering the child the right foods and that they have been well-prepared. They should also be sure that he will not be given food by neighbors who do not understand that he is being disciplined. Obviously it will also be necessary to employ considerable tact.

After all, parents are largely to blame for the child's food prejudices in the opinion of experts at the Home Economics Bureau. They should have seen that only good habits for eating is a matter of habit—had a chance to develop in the first place. By the time a baby is weaned he should have become acquainted with so wide a variety of fruit, vegetable, and cereal flavors that adding new ones would be no tricks at all.

Mothers, it is stated, are unnecessarily discouraged early in the game when the baby makes a wry face and spits out first tastes. This is a normal response to the new food, simply because it is new. Older children and even adults have to become accustomed to foods they have never tasted before. They feel strange to the tongue; they may be warmer, colder, or coarser than the accustomed dishes. They are different, but that does not necessarily imply that they are distasteful.

Distaste or dislike, says the bureau, usually comes under the influence of bad example or unfavorable suggestion. Often a child is unintentionally encouraged into a dislike by his mother who is prejudiced against the food she is feeding him.

An important warning is issued by the bureau, however, in connection with administering the let-it-go-hungry system outlined. If a child is indifferent to food there is something else to investigate. Lack of appetite is abnormal in children. It may be due to lack of healthy outdoor play, over-fatigue, or to some other bad physical condition. In this case a physician should be consulted.

More often, though, a simpler explanation is offered—nibbling between meals. Ice-cream cones, chocolate bars, and similar confection bought with pennies and nickels that are given him, will take the edge off his appetite for wholesome foods. The child who gets hungry between meals should be provided with an extra lunch, some wholesome food that should be given him at a definite time each day and not whenever he asks for it.

Starving a child into submission sounds drastic and cruel and the bureau is not unaware that it will often be difficult for adoring parents to carry out that it is more unjust to let the child have his way in this matter, when he is so little and so ignorant of the consequences of his conduct. A sturdy body should be his birthright, says Uncle Sam.

Q. How much ice is there in the antarctic regions? S. E.

A. Professor W. Meindardus of the University of Göttingen has estimated the extent of the ice in Antarctica at 26,000,000,000,000 cubic yards of ice weighing about 29 quadrillion tons. There is enough ice there he says to cover all Europe to a depth of 6500 feet, or to blanket the whole earth under a layer between 120 and 150 feet thick.

Q. Where was Victor Herbert born? E. M. C.

A. He was born in Dublin, Ireland, February 1, 1859.

Q. When Jaquer is wearing off sterling silver what can be done to improve its appearance? C. E. O'C.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that the lacquer should be removed by a solvent such as a lacquer thinner or butyl acetate. If the objects are discolored, they should be cleaned with a silver cleaner and washed and dried carefully avoiding finger marks on the surface. The silver may then be relacquered with a clear lacquer for silverware sold by most lacquer manufacturers. After relacquering, the objects should be dried at 100-120 degrees F. for 30-45 minutes. Time and money might be saved by taking the articles to an electroplating plant or to a jeweler.

Q. Who is the ruler of Liberia? L. K.

A. Liberia is an independent republic. The president is Charles D. B. King.

Q. How far can a horse swim? B. L. K.

A. A horse has been known to swim two miles at one time.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Etiquette sleuths report the dinner coat no longer permissible at smart gatherings where there are ladies. It has become strictly a stag garment this season and the tail coat has again been plucked out of the moth balls.

It tried to stage a comeback for several seasons, but only recently made the grade. Nor can it be worn with the crush opera hat as it was last season. A plush high hat is required. The Long Island verandah crowd is wearing white flannel dinner suits.

Another fashionable dining wrinkle is also reported coming from London. The very best people these days do not smoke at the table until the hostess lights up her cigarette. That is the signal that all are privileged to smoke. In my day it would be a signal for many women to go home with their noses in the air.

The one-stud shirt has held ground, but the sawed-off white vest has made way for the return of the V pointed waistcoat. The top swank in evening sticks in an ebony with a small white knob and the replica of the owner's signature engraved on the side.

The evening handkerchief should be folded into a square and only a slight edge should show from the pocket. The smart evening shoes are of one piece of patent leather. The gardenia is the correct lapel flower, although Michael Arlen is wearing a bright red rosebud.

Every gentleman should have a platinum chain for his key. It is attached to a suspender button and falls in a loop to the left trouser pocket. Of course, he must have the monogrammed accessories—such as a cigarette case, patent lighter and pencil. All to match.

Oh, yes, pearl cuff links and white gloves are necessary pour le unit. The Prince of Wales continues to set styles, not only over seas, but for America. News comes he is now preparing to introduce a dark gray dinner suit with wide lapels. Can you beat it?

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

If kidneys and heart fail to function as they should, there may be swelling of the ankles and legs. The eyelids, too, may be puffy and the fingers so enlarged that the rings cannot be removed. These symptoms are more commonly due to failure of proper kidney action than to anything else.

There is another trouble of a similar nature. In this there is an escape of quantities of fluid into spaces of the body where it does not belong. The laymen speak of the condition as "dropsy." The doctors call it "edema."

In this condition a watery fluid collects in the abdominal cavity, or the "peritoneal cavity," as the anatomists name it. Normally, this space holds nothing but coils of intestines, and there is just enough moisture to afford lubrication. But in dropsy there may be gallons of fluid in the cavity.

Even so marked and unmistakable a symptom as this is not regarded as a disease. It is not a disease in the true sense. Dropsy is the visible sign of some physical disturbance, rarely in the abdomen itself but usually in the liver, the heart or the kidneys.

The quantity of fluid may be so great as to stretch the skin of the abdomen. The wall is tight as a drum. In a case where there is so much fluid the cause is perfectly apparent. But when the quantity of fluid is only a quart or two, it will not be so easy to decide what is wrong.

To get rid of the accumulated fluid requires no serious procedure. A "trochar"—a sharp pointed instrument enclosed in a hollow tube—is the simple instrument used. This may be thrust through the overlying tissues and the fluid drained off through the tube.

Of course this little operation does not cure anything. It serves merely to remove the pressure and the visible evidence of disability. The underlying cause must be determined and the really curative treatment must be directed towards its removal. Your doctor will decide whether heart, kidney, liver, or some other organ is at fault. In most cases there will be found very scanty flow of urine. It would seem almost as if the fluid which should escape this way is dammed up in the body. If the kidneys are not seriously diseased the remedies which increase their action will do much to prevent the accumulation of fluid in the abdominal cavity.

Likewise, excessive sweating may carry off the fluid. Hot baths, electric-light baths and other means of forcing the skin action may help the dropsy. Once more, however, it must be borne in mind that these measures are not corrective of the underlying fault—they merely remove its effects. I hope I have said enough about dropsy to make it clear that there are many causes. No real cure can be looked for until the fundamental defect is remedied.

Protecting the People.

Acting in accord with its rule that it would grant licenses to radio stations that are already on the air and rendering the most important service, the Federal Radio commission has made a grant of international air rights to twenty newspapers and press associations. The holders of these licenses are thus given a right that is the virtual equivalent of cables across the ocean. In this action the commission does not encroach upon the rights of existing cable companies. Its only object in making the grant was to protect the American public for all time in the fact of free use of the air, and to guard the transmission of news from being encroached upon by monopoly. The public will approve this act. It is a manifest that the radio commission is doing its best to make a proper use of its powers in the interest of the whole public. —Akron Beacon Journal.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy.

Don't be misled by the efforts being made to humanize business.

You should not expect a business man to be swayed from principles he must follow in order to meet the competition he is fighting.

There must be production at the least possible cost and there must be superiority in the article offered for sale.

If you help produce goods you are employed as a part of the equipment necessary to manufacture the product on the least expensive basis possible.

If you can't meet the requirements as well as some other workman you should not expect sentiment to hold your job for you.

There are exceptions, of course. When a worker has given many years of service to his concern, as a reward for past efforts he is favored, perhaps.

But if you have not had this long period of service to bind you to your employers, you must expect to deliver the goods, and continue to deliver no matter if wages are not what you wish.

Business has to pay the employer or he cannot hire helpers.

You must be a profitable producer in his organization, if he retains you.

How to make better STRAWBERRY JAM with one minute's boiling

Certo "short-boil" method saves the fresh flavor and bright color of your fruit—makes 10 glasses of jam from 2 quarts of berries—insures success every time.

NO OTHER FRUIT, perhaps, suffers so much from the old method of long cooking as the delicate, delicious strawberry.

You need never again stand over the kettle watching your strawberries darken, their fragrant fresh flavor drift away in steam, while you "boil them down" for jam.

For with Certo you can make perfect strawberry jam with only one minute's boiling!

Certo is the natural jellifying substance in fruit which causes it to jell. Because nature has distributed this substance so unequally in the different fruits—giving very few of them enough to jellify all of their juice and causing all of them to lose it as they ripen—you have always had to go on cooking and cooking your fruit in the effort to reduce it to the point where it would jell.

Now we have extracted this jellifying substance from fruit, refined, concentrated, and bottled it, all ready for you to use with any fruit. With Certo no long cooking is necessary. It provides enough jellifying substance at the start to jell all the fruit juice.

Famous cooking expert recommends Certo

Miss Alice Bradley, Principal, Miss Farmer's School of Cooking; and Cooking Editor, Woman's Home Companion, says: "I strongly advise all housewives to make all their jams and jellies with Certo because—It's easier—Takes only one minute's boiling. Tastes better—No flavor boiled away. Better color—Not darkened by long boiling. No worry—Never fails to set. It's economical—Fifty per cent more from given amount of fruit and no waste from failures."

Get Certo from your grocer. In the recipe book which comes under the label of each bottle you will find nearly 100 simple recipes for making better looking, better tasting jams and jellies from all the other berries and fruits in their season.

"Never-fail" recipe
for crushed
Strawberry Jam or Blackberry Jam

4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries
7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar
½ cup Certo.

Crush about 2 quarts of berries one layer at a time so that each berry is actually crushed or broken up to a pulp. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil, and prevents fruit rising to the top or floating. Best results are obtained by running berries through a food chopper. Measure crushed berries into a large kettle, add sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard from 1 to 2 minutes, remove from fire and stir in Certo. Skim and stir constantly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire to cool slightly, which prevents fruit floating. Then pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot paraffin wax. (This recipe as well as recipes for sliced and whole fruit strawberry jam are in the book of recipes which comes with each bottle of Certo.)

Games and music followed the presentation of the gifts, after which refreshments were served by the teacher of the class, Mrs. Charles Alley, assisted by Miss Bertha Porter and Ida Lambright. Places were arranged for 27 persons.

THE vast majority of women doctors and nurses would tell you, if you asked them, to employ Kotex.

For they say that too much emphasis cannot be placed on the sanitary pad one uses.

Now Kotex—supreme in the features that have brought to women a new hygiene, with attendant peace-of-mind—has been improved.

In improving Kotex we were careful to make no changes in the features women already liked. There is the same high absorbent surface. The same instant disposability. The same deodorizing. The same simplicity in making your purchase.

But after experimenting two years, we have perfected a new shape for Kotex. One not only more comfortable but which prevents awkward bulkiness to mar smooth fashionable lines.

And we have perfected a fleecy softness never known before, ending all chance of irritation—of chafing or binding.

Now, the greatly increased sale of the Kotex with these two great improvements has made it possible permanently to reduce the regular price considerably.

Now buy the Improved Kotex, at the new low price at any drug, department or dry goods store. Get it today.

High Type of Machine Work at Skidmore Shop

Skill Result of Many Years' Experience in Trade;

Invents Porcelain Insulator Machine;

No Job Too Small.

"The most dependent shop in the city." Thus Walter E. Skidmore, expert machinist, characterizes the little shop he operates in Green Lane.

Tucked away in this little side street, off the bustle and bustle of the city's traffic, yet always convenient and always ready for he who seeks the utmost in service, this little shop truly is dependent upon the work it gets and the proprietor of this rapidly growing establishment takes this method of identifying it.

Dependent upon his customers, Skidmore inculcates a spirit of service with an ability that is second to none in his own particular line of work, into the products of his skill, to give his clients a complete measure of satisfaction.

Out of this shop daily comes the handwork of a craftsman who knows and gives to his work the benefit of that knowledge. Small jobs such as repairing of washing machines gears and parts, turning of motor armatures, filing and setting of saws, repairing of dies, grinding of shears and, yes, even the sharpening of razor blades.

Out of this shop daily comes service that saves someone money and makes another lasting friend for the business.

And out of this shop, the owner is confident, will come some day a piece of machinery that will give to the porcelain industry a new conception of production and profit.

Just a few words here about this machine.

An automatic machine for dry-pressing secondary rack insulators is the description applied to it by its inventor.

It works on one, two, and four groove knobs, shutter knobs, fuse plugs and other apparatus of this nature—anything where two split rings are used in the process of manufacture.

In present practice the man at the bench takes the small rings, or molds, presses the clay in them, extracts the pressed insulator, wipes off the rings and then repeats the process. He can make about 1,200 daily of the large type insulators and perhaps 3,600 of the smaller size.

The automatic machine, Mr. Skidmore says, will manufacture 16,000 or better, daily, depending on rate of operation and other conditions.

The inventor has a small machine of this type in his workshop, capable itself of producing miniature insulators of commercial value. The large machine of the same type will weigh about 3,600 pounds.

A number of manufacturers, Skidmore says, are interested in the machine at the present time, although, he asserts, he has been in no great haste to place it on the market. The original design and subsequent improvements on it are fully protected by patent.

This machine, which ultimately may be an important factor in the porcelain industry, is but one of the many interesting proofs of Skidmore's skill.

He could tell an interesting and colorful story were he to recount in detail the experiences that have been his lot in his trade education. He has served his time at the machinist trade;

an apprenticeship in tool making; has made jigs and tools for various automobile companies, including Packard, Buick, Starns, Winton, Peerless and others; is familiar with the porcelain industry; served an apprenticeship in porcelain die making; worked at drop forged die sinking and stamping dies in Cleveland, and enhanced the wealth of knowledge in Pittsburgh, Chicago and other large industrial centers.

Consequently he brings to his patrons here a mastery and understanding of his trade that is not easily surpassable.

While qualified for practically anything in machine work he is engaged here chiefly in its lighter forms.

He will repair or shrink ring gears for fly-wheels or make auto parts. He has made dies by contract for firms in Canada and all over the United States.

And here's something that might be worth while to Mr. Average Man. He sharpens razor blades in his spare moments—a couple of dozen at a time. One individual recently gave him 100 blades to sharpen.

He will turn down armatures on small motors fix the mechanism of your washer, and, remember, any of this at surprisingly reasonable cost.

And, among other things he will ream bushings for autos, grind butchers' knives, cutters, steak knives; repair dies; file and set saws; make special keys of any description; duplicate any auto part worthy of the effort. He has made countless refractory dies—in fact, some of the first spiral dies made in this community, he says, are his.

He pledges strict confidence in the manufacture of patent office models.

As a parting suggestion, Mr. Skidmore says: "If you have anything mechanical, which you think could be repaired if you had the proper person to do the work, don't discard it on account of some minor flaw. We may be able to fix it for you and at a very reasonable price. If we can't we will tell you the truth about it."

"No mechanical job is too small to receive our best attention."

He proves his statement frequently by accepting such work as the grinding of shears, etc., for the paper-hangers and barbers. While he usually does not call for work of this nature, Mr. Skidmore is prompt about returning it upon completion.

500 Votes Are Cast In Chester at Noon

Record Poll Predicted in State-wide Primaries With Intense Interest in National Delegate and County Fights.

Approximately 500 votes had been cast in Chester at noon in the state-wide primaries, according to estimates made by election board officials of the three city and Rock Springs park precincts.

Heaviest voting during the morning was recorded in the upper precincts when the night turn of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company came off duty.

With a registration of more than 1,900, a record primary vote is expected. The polls close at 6:30 p. m.

Reports from Weirton, New Cumberland and Newell and other sections of the county also indicated that a large vote will be polled in those sections.

Eyes On Delegate Fight

While chief interest in Chester is centered on the fight for county offices on the Republican ticket, the battle for G. O. P. national delegates between Goff and Hoover and the Democratic contest, Smith and Reed, together with the race for United States senator among Governor Howard M. Gore, former Governor Henry D. Hatfield and Attorney Benjamin L. Rosenbloom is engaging the attention of the electors.

Political observers predict a close race for sheriff among J. S. D. Mercer, F. E. Carroll, Charles T. Haynes, James R. Robinson and Howard Hellman. Name of Lawrence E. Rush who withdrew from the race, also appears on the ballot. Attorney W. W. Ingram, of Chester is opposing Prosecuting Attorney Thomas S. Hoffman, while Robert C. Evans, Donald H. Chaffin, Paul G. McCoy and C. L. Jackson are seeking the assessors'hip.

One Democratic Race in County

Arthur G. Allison, John A. Myler, J. W. Owen and A. A. Haynes are in the field for justice of the peace in Grant district, while John T. Allison, Carl Manley, Brady Seewers, W. E. Smith and John Talbott are candidates for constable.

W. Edwin Wells, Jr., of Newell, and J. William Moulds, of Holliday's Cove, are the Republicans seeking the senatorial nomination in the first district composed of Hancock, Brooke and Ohio counties.

CHESTER CALLS OFF MARATHON DANCE EVENT

Promoters Withdraw as Result of Opposition.

SEND TELEGRAM

Eight Couples Report to Enter Endurance Contest.

Because of the storm of opposition which developed over the weekend, the proposed marathon dancing contest, which was to have opened in the municipal auditorium in Chester last night, was called off by the promoters.

Notice of the cancellation was received by Mayor Earl Milby, of the West Virginia town, just as a "citizens' committee" was considering the advisability of applying for a court injunction.

The following telegram was sent to the mayor by Richard L. Balch and Louis J. Allmann, Pittsburgh promoters, from East Liverpool last evening:

"After careful consideration of the stand you took in our behalf and not wishing to cause you any embarrassment we have decided to call off the marathon dance. May the city of Chester always have as their leader such a man as you. Please convey our thanks and appreciation to the members of council who voted to support you."

Feeling Subside

Eight or ten couples, unaware of the cancellation, reported at the city building ready for the start-off. Approximately 100 others, who anticipated witnessing the beginning of the contest also visited the auditorium.

Feeling in Chester today between sponsors and opponents of the proposed dance began to subside.

Councilman Roy Bartley announced that he "stood by" Mayor Milby, who rented the auditorium to the dance promoters Thursday night. Councilmen James Hocking and D. F. Linger also voted to back up the executive, while Solons John Hobbs and Elmer Conley favored cancellation of the verbal contract. The mayor was besieged with telephone calls and personal requests yesterday that he cancel the agreement and prohibit the dance.

19 DELEGATE VOTES G. O. P. FIGHT STAKE

West Virginians Troop to Polls in Hot Primary.

DEMS IN BATTLE

Hoover Invades State Against Senator Goff.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 29.—West Virginians trooped to the polls today to settle one of the hottest primary election fights of recent years.

On the Republican side Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover has invaded the state against Senator Guy D. Goff, the favorite son candidate. Nineteen votes at Kansas City are at stake.

Gov. Al Smith of New York is opposed by Senator James A. Reed of Missouri for the 16 votes to Houston. In addition there are full state tickets up for nomination.

This is the third state in which Hoover has fought a favorite son. He won in Ohio, but lost in Indiana. His backers claim West Virginia although a close vote is anticipated.

Today's election will wind up the Republican primaries. For that reason the results are being closely watched. A victory for Hoover would bring his total claimed, pledged and instructed delegates close to 500, not far short of the nomination.

A defeat would greatly encourage "the allies" against Hoover.

Observers believed Smith will defeat Reed as he did in California and Oregon.

Six More Votes for Smith

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Six additional votes were in Governor Al Smith's presidential column today.

Voteless Washington, in a Democratic primary yesterday, instructed 12 delegates, each with half a vote, to stand by Smith until the end at Houston. There were 7,459 votes cast.

The delegates include R. W. Bolling, brother of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Breckinridge Long, assistant secretary of state in the Wilson administration, and Mrs. George T. Marry, wife of the ex-ambassador to Russia.

The word "cat" has been dropped from the primary grades in the New York schools as too hard a word for beginners to learn to spell. We suggest as a substitute the word "AL"—Uhrichsville Chronicle.

ate dispatch of a searching party but he stated that he planned to land half of his crew as soon as possible.

They will be accompanied by an experienced seal hunter who is familiar with the topography of the polar regions. He will guide them over the shortest possible route to the place where the Italia is believed by the supply ship's captain to have landed.

Fears for the safety of General Umberto Nobile, commander of the lost dirigible, and his crew were somewhat allayed by the message.

The Italia carried sufficient food rations to keep the crew alive for more than a month. It also carried three sleds, a dozen pairs of skis and other equipment for braving the Arctic weather conditions. Nobile and some of his crew may have started southward over the ice in an attempt to get back to King's bay.

The radio message from the Citta di Milano's captain did not reveal the time the sealer received the message thought to be from the Italia.

The automobile was struck by the electric car with such force it was dragged 650 feet, it was said.

The three bodies were taken to Bellevue.

DENNISON BILL WILL GET O. K.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—President Coolidge indicated today he would sign the Dennison bill extending the Mississippi river barge line service.

White House callers were informed the bill does not embody all the president would like, but since it involves no radical departure in the general experimental policy of the river operations, it should be approved.

The bill increases the capital of the Inland Waterways corporation, the government-owned operating concern, to $15,000,000 and provides for extension of the service on the Mississippi and Warrior rivers.

floor, joined in the cheering for the California senator.

Switch in Vote.

The vote astounded Boulder dam adherents, after their victory of yesterday when Vice President Dawes broke a tie to vote against adjournment. A tremendous crowd jammed the floor of the senate and its balconies as the vote was taken. There was no outburst of cheering as occurred yesterday when the senate voted to keep congress here.

The wide difference between the 40 to 40 vote yesterday and the 46 to 35 majority for adjournment today was due to a shifting of senators favorable to the Mississippi barge line bill, which was passed late yesterday.

This caused Senators James A. Reed and Hawley, Democrats of Missouri, did likewise, while the adjournment group gained three new votes, Senator Swanson (D) of Virginia, Ransdell (D) of La., and Scholl (R) of Minn., who did not vote yesterday. The opponents of adjournment lost three votes which switched while Senators Howell (R) of Neb., and Kendrick (D) of Wyoming, failed to vote today, after opposing adjournment yesterday.

ORDERS UNIFORMS FOR DRY AGENTS

CHICAGO, May 29.—Prohibition agents assigned to highway duty must wear distinctive uniforms, administrator E. C. Yellowley ruled today.

The measure is expected to curtail promiscuous shooting, and is intended to protect both citizens and dry officers.

"The old excuse of mistaking prohibition agents for bandits will no longer hold," explained Yellowley. "On the other hand there will be less shooting by dry agents; they will not fire unless fired upon."

TWO MEN DIE IN RAIL WRECK

Two Other Persons are Injured Near Barberton.

BARBERTON, O., May 29.—Two unidentified men were killed and a man and boy were injured early today when three freight trains were wrecked between here and Kenmore.

The Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio freight trains are said to have collided head-on due to fog obscuring signals.

The bucking of cars caused another train to be damaged, it was said.

The dead men are believed to have been tramps. The injured boy, said to be John Mehaffey, 15, of Youngstown, was taken to a local hospital. The injured man is William Penn, 35, of Winton-Salem, N. C., and is in an Akron hospital.

WACO AIRPLANE HOPS TO CITY

Flying a Waco No. 10 plane, Edwin Godwin, pilot and James E. Douglass, Jr., a passenger, hopped from Beaver Falls to East Liverpool yesterday for an inspection of the new airport in Madison township.

Both men expressed the opinion that the site would make a first class landing field when the improvements, under way, have been completed. Several take-offs and landings on the field were made by the plane.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 29.—In their effort to stem the tide of speculative selling, bullish forces in the stock market today stood squarely behind their speculative favorites. Chrysler Motors gave a strong "demonstration" at the opening, when a block of 25,000 shares sold at 84, compared with yesterday's close at 80, and an advance of nearly 30 points from the low of the year. General Motors and Radio made moderate advances in active trading in the first hour, but were under selling pressure in the second.

The 6 1/2 per cent. call loan rate announced near the close of Monday's session failed to precipitate any great volume of outside selling of popular stocks, and "margin protection" at the brokerage houses was sufficient to forestall the wholesale selling of stocks for traders unable to protect themselves. Bullish forces rallied sharply behind a number of their favorites, and the market on the whole gave a good account of itself in this period.

The call loan renewal rate was 6 per cent., but New York banks were not heavy contributors to the call market, but the non-member banks had plenty to lean at current high rates, and it was generally believed that the rate would not go above 6 1/2 per cent., even in the month-end "squeeze." Business and industrial reports were unchanged, with the valuation of April net railroad earnings showing an 8 per cent. decline from the same month of last year.

Boy Kills Father Who Hit Stepmother

Detroit Lad, 12, Held in Detention Home After He Shoots Trucking Contractor.

DETROIT, May 29.—Twelve-year-old Joseph Fiori, who shot and killed his father, Samuel, 33, well-to-do trucking contractor, is held in the juvenile detention home today while authorities decide what to do with him.

Enraged because his father had beaten his step-mother, Virginia, 27, the fifth grade school boy obtained a revolver and followed his father to the street and shot him.

"And I would do it again if he tried to harm my step-mother," Joseph declared, according to the police.

Joseph's father recently bought his wife a new car and beat her because she had not changed tires on it as instructed earlier in the day.

After the shooting Joseph ran three miles to the home of his grandmother.

"I wanted to teach my dad not to hurt my mother," Joseph said. "He had hurt her before and I had promised mother I would protect her. Even though she isn't my real mother she has been awfully good to me."

TODAY

earth, with one board of directors running the whole thing.

Religions, says Wells, have run their course. Christianity, which began with "the completest communism," has become the completest capitalism.

"Take all thou hast and give to the poor," has been changed to "Get all thou canst, and devil take the hindmost."

BUDDHISM began in complete renunciation. Buddha let the hungry tigress eat his body. Now vilest superstition replaces Buddha's teachings—and so it goes.

MR. WELLS' plan is interesting, like those of Plato, in his "Republic," Moore in his "Utopia," and Karl Marx, in his book that became the foundation of modern socialism.

Each one would work as well as the other, that is to say, not at all. Yet each is useful, for it makes men think, and that is important.

THE human race is an individual on a bigger scale, and it is in its infancy. It is useless to contemplate a baby two years old and plan to make a man of it in six months.

You must observe how and at what rate your race or individual can grow, then do what you can to direct and promote good growth.

THE most important work now is to encourage thought and distribute knowledge. And the greatest agency is the public school.

"Give light, and the people will find their own way." Give good public schools and you give light.

ARTHUR KEITH, heavyweight British scientist, denies the possibility of life after death. "Mind, soul and spirit are manifestations of a living brain and cease to exist when the brain dies." Many scientists discuss that which they can't possibly understand.

F. G. BONFELS, owner and boss of the Denver Post, says:

"I am living now, and so far as I know I wasn't living a few years ago."

"If that can happen, anything can happen, so why shouldn't I be living in a few years or a few hundred million years from now?" That's common sense. It can happen once, it can happen twice, or a million times.

EVERY day, year in and year out, 2,000,000 Americans are ill. The average worker loses eight days a year through illness.

What the country needs is intelligent PREVENTION.

THE A. O. Smith Company, employing several thousand men in Milwaukee, retains a staff of medical experts whose business it is to examine with the greatest care and with charge and without compulsion every employee from the president down.

Each is told exactly what his physical condition is and how to circumvent any illness that may threaten.

MR. HALEY FISKE'S big Metropolitan Life Insurance Company started this work among its thousands of employees, in addition to advertising extremely valuable health warnings.

Many big concerns, including the Federal Reserve Bank, have followed the good example.

The most valuable men in every organization are often those most in need of warning, as shown by heart statistics.

THERON KILANDER wants a good place to park his car for the 500-mile automobile race on the Indianapolis speedway day after tomorrow.

So, on Saturday, he parked his car at the entrance to be first inside the gate. There he waits and sleeps.

If each man took as deep interest in his own race for success as he does in somebody else's race, there would be fewer at the speedways, race tracks and baseball parks.

with Beatrice's case was released. He was taken into custody yesterday, principally because he was once employed near the spot where the child's body was found, it was said.

The aged man, a watchman, who surrendered to Cleveland police when he heard authorities wanted him was the only person held today in connection with the case.

"We have nothing incriminating on this man and probably will let him go," Chief McNicholas said.

THREE MONKEYS FLEE FROM PARK

Three of six Rhesus monkeys, who escaped from Monkey Island at Rock spring park yesterday, were still at liberty, presumably in the woods surrounding the resort today.

The monkeys leaped over the side of the cage yesterday when they were frightened by "Jiggs" and "Maggie," two baboons.

One of the monkeys was captured shortly after the escape, while another made his appearance on the midway this morning. The third attempted to swim the Ohio river after he leaped from a tree along Neptune avenue and was captured by Harry Judy, house boat occupant, who returned it back to the park owners.

KILLER OF SONS GETS LIFE TERM

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 29.—Geo. Allen Chisholm, Canadian veteran of the World War, was to be taken to Michigan City today to begin a life sentence for the murder of his two little sons.

Overruling the state's demand for the electric chair, Judge Grant Crumpacker sentenced Chisholm following his plea of guilty.

Chisholm's confession, wherein he admitted having induced his boys to jump into the Indiana Harbor ship canal after tying iron weights to their bodies, was read in court.

The defense argued Chisholm's mind was disordered as a result of shell shock.

POLICE IN ROME CHECK SLAV MOB

ROME, May 29.—Incensed by the recent anti-Italian demonstrations recently staged in Jugo-Slavia, 1,500 university students today surged about the front of the Jugo-Slavian legation quarters and serious consequences were prevented only by the timely arrival of police.

Just as it seemed certain that the student mob would invade the legation, mounted police arrived on the scene and dispersed the students by charging into them.

Premier Mussolini has instructed the Italian minister at Belgrade to lodge a formal protest against the anti-Italian demonstrations with the Jugo-Slavian government, and demand reparations.

Home of Emerson Hough for Rent; Relics Shattered

NEWTON, Ia.—Hopes of civic organizations for preserving the old home of the late Emerson Hough as a shrine perpetuating his memory have been shattered.

A "For Rent" sign now hangs on one of the stately oaks out front. The house, built by the author's father, Joseph Hough, is almost entirely of black walnut construction. The son installed modern improvements but his parents' old furnishings were kept intact.

On Emerson's death his sister, Ella, still stayed on in charge of the home-stead. Now she, too, has passed away. And the furniture, books and antique glassware the author loved so well have been sold or given to relatives and friends.

Soda clerk suffered foot miseries

—but Coolene ended all burning and aching overnight

If you ask Joseph N. Heath what he thinks of Coolene, he'll probably say, "There's a nothing like it for burning, aching feet."

Joseph N. Heath, who is a soda dispenser at a well-known fountain in Columbus, recently began to be troubled with foot tortures. He knew that unless he found relief from painful blisters and callouses, he'd need a wheel-chair to serve customers. One day he tried Coolene. Results were remarkable. As he says himself:

"I got a soda dispenser at a popular fountain. I had to be on my feet all day long. After a short while on the job, my feet began to trouble me. They burned and ached, calluses formed. I lost my old-time speed at serving soda. When my day's work was done, my feet pained me so that it was all I could do to get home. I was often tempted to drop some ice cream into my shoes just to cool those burning feet. One day a drug clerk suggested that I try Coolene. I did, and Oh how I wish I hadn't! Thanks to Coolene my foot tortures are for good."

Coolene soothes and heals sore, aching feet— instantly! It contains rare, penetrating oils—and two world-old, soothing unguents—frankincense and myrrh, used by the ancients for centuries.

Get Coolene today. This wonderful healing cream takes all the burning and soreness out of corns, callouses, bunions and blisters. Coolene is ivory-white, greaseless, stainless. Easy to use. Vanishes instantly. Relief guaranteed from burning, aching, tired feet—or its small cost refunded. Sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere, such as: Matthews Medicine Store, J. C. Carnahan, C. T. Larkins, Hodson Drug Co.

Intestinal Stasis

... don't let it rob you of youth and energy

WHY feel older than you really are? Why lose that glorious vigor and buoyancy of youth—years before your time?

A prominent specialist, combating premature old age, has found that it is commonly caused by... intestinal stasis. When the intestines become inactive, they fail to eliminate waste matter properly. Then poisons form and are carried by the blood through the whole body. They go to your brain—and make you dull, "blue," headachy. They attack your heart, kidneys, lungs, liver—making you tired and weak—killing your pep—and often leading to serious ailments.

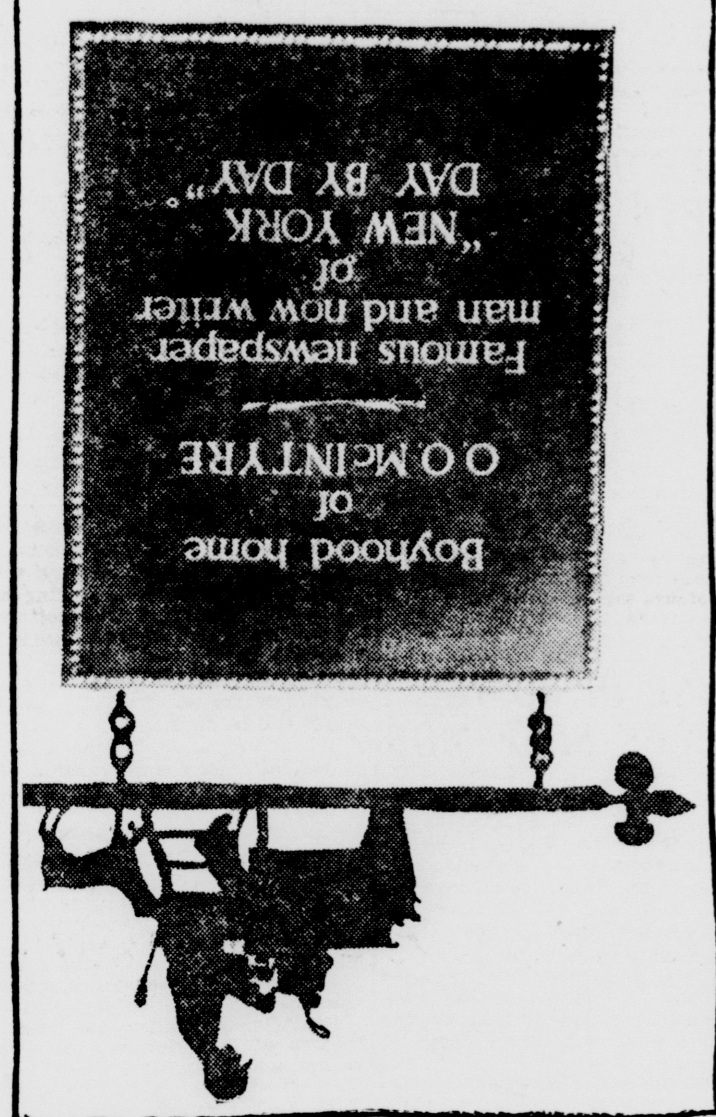

The only way to overcome this condition, says science, is to wake up the intestines. Not by drugging yourself. But in nature's own way—through the Zilatone treatment.

Zilatone stimulates the flow of bile and other digestive juices—naturally. Enables them to stir the intestines into action and throw off wastes and poisons. Goes further, too. Zilatone purifies blood. Builds up the system. You feel better... in every way—younger, peppier, happier. Thousands take Zilatone for treatment and prevention of gall stones, heart and kidney troubles; also high blood pressure, when due to auto-intoxication.

Your own druggist will recommend Zilatone. Costs only 60c. Guaranteed to satisfy or money back. See your druggist... today.

The home folks tribute to a columnist.

Gallipolis, Ohio, has been in existence since 1790. It was visited by Lafayette, and it has always been the home of genius. It was founded by a little band of French writers and painters, and the tradition persists. Everybody who is born in Gallipolis paints or writes.

But O. O. McIntyre, formerly of East Liverpool, the famous columnist who writes about New York, has put Gallipolis on the map. He spent most of his boyhood there. Since he has been engaged in the business of making New York famous, he has not forgotten his home town. In his column he often mentions Gallipolis with the fervor of a favorite son who is far away but does not forget.

Recently, Gallipolis decided to reciprocate the favor. The Gallipolis Community association has caused a marker to be erected outside the house where Odd McIntyre used to live.

McIntyre was born in Plattsburg, Missouri, but went to Gallipolis when he was six years old. His mother died, and he was sent to live with his grandmother.

McIntyre is said to reach the largest public of any living writer. There are few persons of reading age who have not read at least some of his writings. His "New York Day by Day" and his weekly articles are followed regularly by many millions of readers.

O. O. McIntyre is a regular contributor of the East Liverpool Review, and before going to New York was a police reporter here.

The Air Mail

By Michelson

What a thrill! No more waiting for the postman to come down the lane and stop at the gate! No more anxious watching for the letter to be dropped in the box. No, indeed! Nowadays the modern maid stands out in the open and anxiously scans the skies for the loved one to come along and drop the mail at her feet.

Not only letters does he drop at her waiting feet, but huge bunches of flowers he hurls earthwards. The airmail! What a thrill and what a joyous thing it is for the waiting heart. Anxiety for the loved one is the forerunner of the greatest of all thrills—that of the personal delivery of the airmail by the air male.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of our dear grandchild, Bonita Mercer, who was lost August 1st and found dead August 7th, 1927, at the age of 5 years, nine months and 19 days.

"Fallen Asleep."
(Composed by her Grandmother).
Our precious little darling has gone up above
To the land all glorious in sunshine and love.
But, Oh, how we miss the little voice so sweet,
For she has, in Jesus, fallen sweetly asleep.
Oh, how it grieves us to see the empty chair,
With no little finger prints here or there.
Oh, how we miss the little cherub so sweet,
And the pitter-patter of busy little feet.
Her dear little life was so sweet and tender,
Many fond memories we'll cherish and remember.
Her shining little face shines out so bright
From far above the sky both day and night.
With angels now she's singing all the time,
Sweet heavenly music and songs sublime.
Beckoning us bereaved ones to come on high.
To God's great mansion far above the sky.
But there were times when I was chasing around,
Wondering where little Bonita might be found.
Then it sweeps o'er me in a sickening pain,
That I'll never see little Bonita on earth again.
For our precious Darling has now gone away
To live with the angels both night and day.
Yet still I hear her sweet little voice so plain,
And feel the clasp of her little arms again.
I still feel the kiss of her tender lips,
That I'm sure all the heavenly hosts did bless.
Blessed sweet memories to forget—I never will.
Altho God sweetly comforts and whispers "be still,"
For we will meet our darling again some day.
If only we hold out faithfully and pray.
We will see our precious one on the other shore,
Where sorrow and weeping and pain are no more.
For now Heaven is sweeter since she is there
In the arms of Jesus, our lamb so fair.
'Tis a thought that soothes our hearts so sore,
'Tis a tie that binds us to Heaven evermore.

PRINCESS YVONNE WILL ANSWER QUESTIONS AT THE AMERICAN

Do you have a desire to know whether your sweetheart is true to you, and, perhaps, the day and date when you'll be carrying a bridal bouquet up the aisle to the strains of Mendelssohn's popular march? Or, perhaps, the fate of your financial investments, or the trend of your business affairs?
These questions, and many others, Princess Yvonne, "Mystic wonder woman" now appearing at the American theatre, professes to answer during her three-day stay in the local theatre. Princess Yvonne opened her engagement yesterday and will conclude her visit here Wednesday night.
The film feature now being exhibited is "Tea for Three," starring Aileen Pringle and Lew Cody.

WALKER VICTOR OVER MARULLO

CLEVELAND, May 29.—Tony Marullo of New Orleans, middleweight today realized that Mickey Walker is a true middleweight champion. Walker easily defeated Marullo in the main bout of 10 rounds at the Olympic arena here before 3,000 fight fans last night.

Tony landed several good blows on the champion's jaw but it caused no damage. Marullo suffered a split lip and a bloody nose.

Walker, after sizing up his opponent in the first three rounds, had things his own way the rest of the ten rounds. In the fourth he clouted lefts and rights to Tony's jaw and kept this up until the tenth, when he tried for a knock-out but the man from New Orleans was game and was on his feet when the last gong sounded.

Promoters' War Over Loughran Nears Climax

Rickard-Fugazy Scrap Carried to Commission.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The promoters' war over the services of Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight champion, was carried up to the New York boxing commission today with the title-holder's manager, Joe Smith, and Humbert Fugazy lined up against Tex Rickard.

Loughran was unable to be present as he is in Philadelphia completing his training for Pete Latzo, who will make his bid for titular honors in a fifteen-round bout at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, tomorrow night. Fugazy is staging that bout and also has Loughran signed to meet Leo Lomski in the same ring on June 13.

Smith has repudiated an option held by Rickard on the champion's services and has steadfastly declined to sign a contract for Loughran to box Jimmy Slattery. The commission last week approved June 14 as a date for this match and Slattery is training for it. It is believed the controversy will end in a compromise with a new set of dates for Slattery and Lomski.

Meanwhile Latzo declares that Loughran won't be champion after to-morrow evening and that he will thus relieve Slattery and Lomski of the challenging burden.

Donohue Back With Redlegs

Starts Work by Pitching 2-1 Win Over Cubs.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Boasting a lead of two full games over the Chicago Cubs, the Cincinnati Reds are coasting along in first place in the National league today with apparently every intention of staying there.

The Porkville boys got a tough break on Sunday when Red Lucas, their star twirler, was hit on the wrist during batting practice and laid up for nearly a month. But this loss was nullified yesterday when Pete Donohue, starting his first game of the season after a long salary huddle, held the Cubs to five hits and chalked up a 2 to 1 victory. Donohue, always a good hitter, drove in the winning run.

An even better pitching performance was flashed by Walter Beck, former Tulsa twirler now sporting the livery of the St. Louis Browns. He limited the White Sox to a pair of hits and won a 2 to 1 verdict. Lou Blue got a homer.

The Browns clambered back into the first division as the Boston Red Sox were whitewashed, 2 to 0, by old Tom Zachary of the Senators. A double steal by Goslin and Judge beat Ed Morris, star Boston rookie twice.

The business of stopping the Yankees degenerated from a joke into a farce when the world's champions swamped the battered Athletics, 11 to 4, for the fifth time in the six-game series. For the second time in a week the Yanks vanquished Lefty Grove, once their nemesis. Dugan and Lazzeri each collected their third home run of the series.

The A's now trail the Yanks by eight games and Connie Mack is getting desperate. He has shipped considerable cash and two pitchers—Jing Johnson, a veteran, and Bill Shores, a promising rookie—to Baltimore in exchange for George Earnshaw, mound ace of the Orioles.

Collapse of Athletics in Series With Yanks Just About Ends Opposition to Pace Setters

"Crucial" Series Fails to be Crucial as Hugmen Take Five Out of Six.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Those five out of six games in which the Yankees knocked the Athletics for a series of reorganizations, ending in Philadelphia yesterday, have just about closed the book on the American league race. Race? Pardon my lisp. I didn't even mean chase.

The American league today is sponsoring an endurance contest, meaning that the public will need a lot of stamina to stay with the situation much longer. To all intents, the New York Yankees have won the pennant in the first six weeks of the season and, if you think this is being a trifle premature, I can only commend your attention to the following:

Nothing except a victory for the Athletics in the series just concluded could have kept the American league problem within focus. The collapse of that club simply meant that the bottom had fallen out of the business and that the opposition, actual enough while the Athletics were losing only four games between April 19 and May 24, had become only a flimsy pretense.

Oddly enough, the Yanks are not the fool-proof outfit they were in 1927 and I don't mean that the contention is more fat-headed bunk, either. The Browns, Red Sox and Indians are stronger this year, potentially and, in some cases, actually. The Tigers should be better, too, or at least as good as they were. The fact of the matter is that the contention can't hope to get anywhere with a club that wins, not only by the law of respectability but by ordination.

A pair of xylophone playing evangelists are here and we consider that a new way of expounding the gospel and knocking the devil out of folks—Youngstown Vindicator.

MIDLAND SOFT BALL

The Account department defeated the Business Men in a one-sided tilt last night, 12 to 0. Taking advantage of the breaks that came their way and playing heads-up ball, the accountants were never in danger.

Although the B. M. got nine hits, they were well scattered and Quinn again demonstrated he was master of the affair. Grimm and Sheld hit hard for the victors while Wallover bled frequently for the loser, each getting three. Grimm crashed a pair of doubles. Jacobs, for the B. M., opened the sixth with a husky triple but could get no farther, the next three runners being retired in order.

The Constant Flame

Narrative of Love and Struggle Against Temptations

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Emily felt that catch her heart, release through her an impulse like a rush of tears. She could do one thing to make this a little more right, she could promise herself that never because of her should more sorrow come to this mother. What did it matter, what she might wish her to do? Even marry Marty, if Marty wished to marry Emily Day. Oh, anything! That much in return for all Agnes had suffered. She could be that strong—yes. Vow that—easy, after all.

She made her vow, silently, standing there with her arms about the drooping shoulders.

Stella came for her in the evening and asked her to take a walk.

They went down to the River Road, lolloped before the entrance of Highcliffe.

"Do you ever hear from Kent, Em?"

"No! Didn't expect that. Everything changes, Stell."

"I suppose so," gloomily. "Even those that don't go away. Skeets is out with Bess Tourney tonight."

Emily saw then that Stella's hands were clenched and she was choking back sobs.

"Oh, what do you care, dear? Skeets is the way he is, one girl today and another tomorrow."

"That's no comfort. He's—he's got to come back!—it's just—I'm a fool, I suppose, but I love him! Couldn't help it—oh, all of them are rotten. What am I going to do? Can't stand this—"

Emily slipped her hand in Stella's and they walked on beyond the Granger place under the arching trees, out toward the looming dark of North Mountain.

CHAPTER 15.

There was a bench pressed close to the bank at the far side of the road half covered by shrubs and swinging vines and standing in deep shadow.

An out of the way spot this was, for the road went on down to the beach and it was too early in the season for bathers.

Cars came to the end of the River Road, circled the tiny park and headed back toward Lyall. They made a pleasant rushing sound in the quiet and down below the river flowed darkly, peacefully—so peacefully.

"Let's sit here, Stella. I'm sorry, dear. If I could do anything—"

"No one can. Thought I could take care of myself—why are girls like this Em? Wanting them back. No matter what they do, how rotten they are, always wanting them back."

"A girl's fool to fall in love. Why can't we take it the way they do? Something to play with a couple of minutes? Why, I haven't looked at a fellow since I've been golg around with Skeets. Not that he'd have given a darn. Every last one of 'em—rotten—"

Emily was staring out over the river, watching a boat gliding up with the tide. A little aching sadness kept turning in her though like the sense of a cherished thing that has been and is not.

She did not believe as Stella did, she told herself. Love—oh, a radiant thing between two who could meet fearlessly and in the beauty of mutual understanding. Many women and some men were like that. They must be, else how could ideals go on?

And yet—and yet . . .

Wheels rolled softly above the hill and stopped. A moment later two came down the road; they walked to the railing and stood there, facing each other. Emily had a fleeting impression of ruddy hair as branches moved and light filtered through for an instant; the man was Marty.

Instantly she knew the girl to be Avis Rossiter.

"Let's go, Stell."

"They'll see us," Stella whispered. "Wait till they move."

But they didn't move. Their voices, very low, nevertheless carried clearly to the bench. Impossible not to hear what they said.

"You weren't very gracious when I phoned, Mart. Don't care as much about sneaking out for an hour or two as you did."

Marty answered gruffly. "That's it—sneaking. What's it all about? Can't walk up to your front door as well as some of those cake-eaters? Could take a chance on me couldn't you?"

"Ah, now Marty, not mad with Avis? You know how we stand—"

Emily saw her hand slide up his arm, curl around his neck, draw his head down; she saw Avis kiss him on the lips. And she saw Marty thrust his hands into his pockets, straighten, stand unmoved.

"You don't care any more?" A rising note of hysteria in the girl's voice now; she caught his arm and shook it. "You don't care? I'll tell you something! I'm going to be married! Two or three weeks now—next month—I'm going to be married!"

But he only shrugged and went on standing there, head turned away from the beautiful face lifted to his own.

His indifference seemed to inflame her; she threw out her arms, brought them together on the railing and bowed her head on them.

"You—oh, you'd let me go!" she sobbed. "You'd do that! Listen: I'm ready—do anything. Drive down to Jersey—married tonight—you will? You did care!"

He jerked about and caught her shoulders, not gently; spoke in an evil growl with a hint of Tim Nolan whirling through 'Is speech.

"So it's anything you'd do now, is it? Anything to be gettin' your own way. That's it; your own way is what you want."

"Marry you? Not in a million years! Think I want a painted doll for a wife? I picked out that one a long time back and she doesn't speak your language. Snay out of it now and don't be havin' any more dreams."

"But Marty—" The daughter of the Rossiters put out a restraining hand trying, it seemed, to hold him back. "You don't love me? You never loved me?"

"Certainly not! What did you think? Another thing; don't come pestering around me after you're married. That's out."

With this he stalked away and Avis followed slowly, handkerchief pressed to her lips.

The girls on the bench heard an engine roar—wheels turning on the gravel. The two had taken their sordid little affair away; they were gone.

Emily was shaken; she drew a hard, excited breath and spoke in a fury of contempt. "How could he, Stell? Be such a brute—oh, and that poor girl. Begging so."

But Stella laughed harshly and told her not to be a fool. "It was her or him, wasn't it? He's got her number. Those society dames! Yes, and the men too. I ought to know. Watch out for their kind, Em."

But it didn't seem reasonable Emily thought as they walked homeward. Supposing Kent had remained here and they had fallen in love—supposing, rather, he had got to feel about her as she always had felt about him. Would he sometimes have treated her as Skeets Bradley was treating Stella? As Stella said Avis was acting toward Marty? Flirting a little, inviting love, throwing it away?

Kent—no, never do this. Never a thing not stalwart and fine. Well, Kingdon Coles? Frances had told her of his loves.

She decided to be careful about Coles. Not let him talk to her in a corner all evening, call her "little golden sweetheart." Of course he smiled when he said this but his eyes were eager. Strange how those things could be.

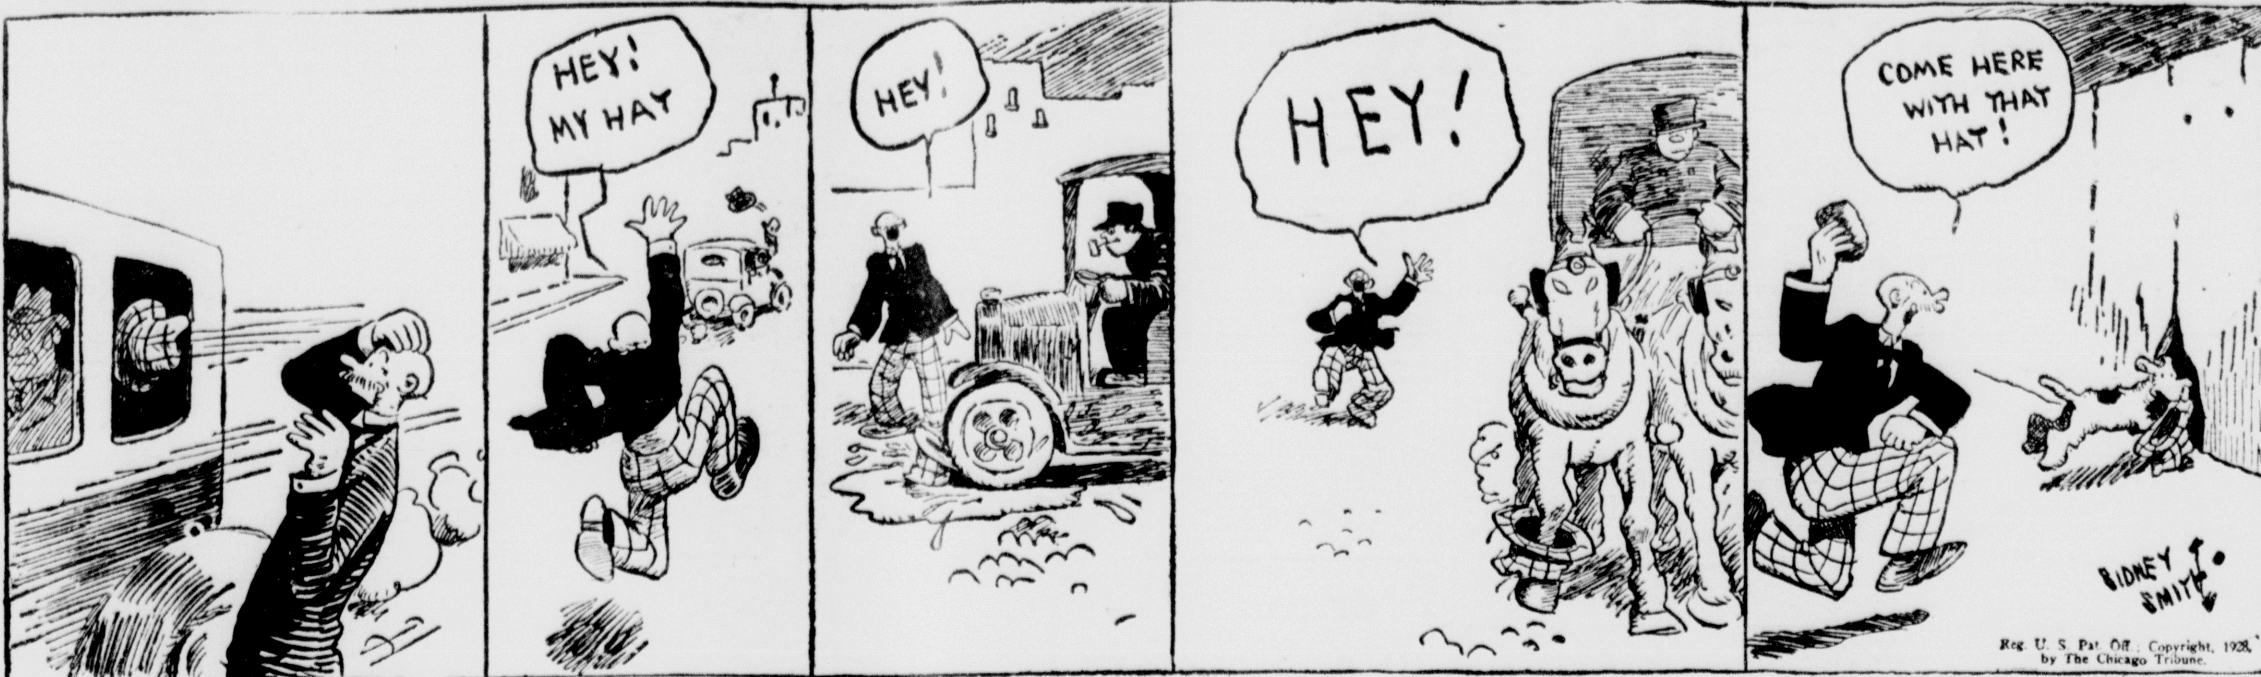

And Marilee Granger whom everyone said was to marry Kent—would she be good to him, make him the sort of wife he deserved?

For the first in her life Emily felt a two-edged hurt go stabbing through her heart.

She was too honest not to call it jealousy.

Amusements

BEERY, HATTON IN BELL-RINGER

Gang warfare, fights to the death, riots, speeding police cars—raw riveting melodrama, richly seasoned with the inimitable comedy of Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton. That describes "Partners in Crime," the Paramount picture which opened at the Ceramic theatre last night.

There is not a single entertainment bet overlooked in this thrilling and highly amusing picture. As a straight melodrama it ranks with the best. As a situation comedy it could scarcely be excelled. To cap it all there is an excellent love motif. That makes a triangular combination hard to beat.

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton are at their very best in this picture. The qualities that brought them to the very front as character comedians shine brightly through the comedy structure of the production. They don't clown and they are not dressed in ludicrous fashion. They are real characters, and such characters!

Beery has the part of a dumb detective whose heart is right but whose mind is just a few hours behind time. Hatton has a dual role. First he is a wise-cracking newspaper reporter and then he is "Knife" Reagan, an underworld gang leader.

One of the most amusing features of the plot centers about this resemblance between the reporter and the gang leader. Beery knocks the gangster cold thinking it is the reporter, who is his rival for the girl in the case.

Dainty little Mary Brian is that girl and the boys certainly can't be blamed for falling for her. She is her own appealing beautiful self in a good role, and that is as much praise as anyone could wish. William Powell again acquits himself creditably as an arch villain in the role of an underworld gang leader and Jack Luten shows why he is considered to have a promising future in his excellent characterization of the young assistant district attorney who declares war on the underworld gangs.

The attorney is kidnapped by the crooks and Beery and Hatton, to win favor in the eyes of the girl, start to rescue. They think that he is a relative of the girl, not knowing that he is her sweetheart.

Battered Antique Looks Like $6.75 at Second Hand; Worth $20,000

By SHIRLEY KIRKE
International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent

AN OLD parlor cupboard, scuffed, battered and mistreated, yet boasting that sleek, brown patina which time only can bestow, is the unique exhibit in a New England row which is expected to have far-reaching results to collectors.

On the face of things the cupboard is worth, say, $6.75 in the village second-hand store; and in all probability your dealer would insist he bought it only out of the goodness of his heart. Yet—

The piece of furniture in question is one of the most-prized bits of Americana outside of a museum, J. F. Morgan being so anxious to acquire it that he has caused his agents to post a standing offer of $20,000 for it. Therein lies both a story and a lawsuit.

The Rev. Wallace Nutting, retired minister, artist and antiquarian of Boston, Mass., holds a bill of sale to the relic. It was given to him by Miss Abby W. Howes, Danvers schoolteacher, in consideration of $3,000 in hand paid. But when the Morgan proffer became a matter for front page discussion in the press, Miss Howes demanded that she be permitted to buy it back. And in the bill of particulars adduced in Equity Court, Cambridge, Mass., she contended that:

Governor Thomas Prince of Plymouth, in his will written March 13, 1673, deposited:

"My will is that Mary, my beloved wife, shall have such household goods of any kind as were hers before we married, returned to her againe."

"Item I give unto my said loving wife my bed and the furniture thereunto appertaining, and the court cubberd that stands in the new parlor with the cloth and cushion that is on it."

The "cubberd" finally became the property of the distinguished governor's descendant, Miss Howes, who disposed of it to the minister-artist-antiquarian for $3,000. In her petition to the court she alleged that the Rev. Mr. Nutting was "fully aware of the cupboard's great value at the time," from which premise she argues that it was fraudulently obtained from her.

Outcome of the row is being closely watched by collectors, for it is looked upon as only the forerunner of a score of other suits brought by persons getting the "short end" in such transactions.

Fair Champion

Golfers in the Eastern division didn't find the going easy in the qualifying round for the Women's Metropolitan Golf Championship at the Baltusrol Golf Club, Short Hills, N. J. Maureen Orcutt, the present champion, above, gave the big gallery a thrill in winning the round and is considered to have a good chance to repeat.

Governor Adams Declines Offer Of College Degree

DENVER, May 29.—William H. (Billy) Adams, modest governor of Colorado, cannot see the practical value of the letters L. D. attached to the end of his name, therefore he declined the honor of accepting that degree of higher learning when officials of the University of Colorado offered it to him.

Because of the governor's success as a state political leader and no less success as a breeder of high grade livestock on his ranch at Alamosa, the university men decided he had earned the distinction of a college degree. The governor declared that he had done nothing to earn such honor, therefore he could not conscientiously accept it.

Marshall to Open Headquarters.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 29.—Chief Justice C. T. Marshall, of the Ohio supreme court, Republican candidate for nomination for U. S. senator will open headquarters in the Neil house here Friday, it was announced today. Miss Constance Marshall, daughter of Justice Marshall, will be in charge of headquarters, at least for the time being, it was stated.

While London taxi drivers are compelled to pass a severe driving test as to the business part of the city, they are not expected to know so much about the suburbs as before.

Seven Cities Have Perfect Marks in Fight on Typhoid

CHICAGO.—More cities reported no deaths from typhoid fever during 1927 than ever before, since the American Medical association began its surveys in 1913, according to the annual report just issued, here.

Seven cities showed a clean slate of no deaths last year. They were: New Haven, Conn.; Yonkers, N. Y.; Springfield, Mass.; Paterson, N. J.; Canton, O.; Richmond, Va.; Kansas City, Kas.

Yonkers, listed in the honor roll for two consecutive years, is the only city in the country with such a record.

Cards Billed In Pittsburgh Memorial Day

Bucs to Battle Pennant Rivals in Two Games.

Baseball de luxe is on tap at Forbes Field for the Decoration Day series next week, for, beginning with a game on Tuesday, May 29 and continuing with morning and afternoon games on Decoration Day (Wednesday) followed by a single game Thursday, May 31, the St. Louis Cardinals will be the opponents of Donle Bush's Pittsburgh Pirates.

Seldom do the western Pennsylvania fans have the opportunity of witnessing a potential pennant contender in action against the Buccos in a brace of holiday games, but the schedulers this year have handed the Buccos fans a juicy morsel in looking the Cardinals as the Memorial Day attraction. And it goes without saying that the St. Louis boys are going to be in the pennant fight right down to the wire. Manager McKeehan has greatly enhanced the chances of his club through the acquisition during the past few weeks of Catcher Jimmy Wilson and Outfielder Frank Harper.

This additional strength should make the holiday games sizzling affairs, for the Buccos, with the coming of warmer weather are hitting their stride and are out to make up for lost time in the pennant race. As the Cardinals pretty generally are picked as the club the Buccos have to beat out for the 1928 flag, every game in this series will mean much to the winner, and the heated argument between the players and managers of both teams, which nearly ended in fistfights at the opening series between the Pirates and the Cardinals a few weeks ago, is almost sure to be renewed. The Buccos have not forgotten the race to the wire given them by the Cardinals last Fall, and are going to do everything possible to prevent a like occurrence this year.

Already the indications are that capacity crowds will greet the national pastimes at these holiday games, but the recently enlarged stands at Forbes Field are ample to comfortably seat all who care to look in on these hotly contested games. Mail orders for reserved seats will continue to be filled at the club offices, Forbes Field, until Monday, May 28.

Oh, you must own a 72

You know without being told that all motor cars endeavor today to act like Chrysler in engineering and performance. That is self-evident and obvious . . . Q You may have felt that some of these endeavors have succeeded in overtaking the illustrious Chrysler "72"—if not in fact, at least superficially. You can quickly undecieve yourself. You can quickly prove that Chrysler "72" is still as far ahead as it was four years ago . . . Q Not merely in principle or in theory, but in plain, blunt facts of performance which you can see, and feel, and register . . . Q But in every one and all of the characteristics which Chrysler "72" created—so far, far ahead that the gap is even greater today than it was at the outset of Chrysler history.
